

New Year brings good things

Care and understanding are two critical ingredients when it comes to family law matters. That's why I'm pleased to announce the promotion of two of my most valued solicitors.

Adam Vella who has been with the firm since April 2019 has been promoted to Associate and Emma Scott who has been with us for a year (and who is based at our Surry Hills office) has been promoted to Junior Associate.

As well as their skill and legal knowledge, Adam and Emma bring empathy, compassion and care to each of their clients with an emphasis on resolution outside the court process and with a commitment to achieving the best results possible. They are valuable members of the Reid Family Lawyers team and it is a pleasure working with them every day.

We pride ourselves at RFL on working as a team. This means that every one of us is across every matter so our clients can access legal advice and prompt attention to their matter from anyone in the firm. Here's what one of our clients sent to us before the 2021 Christmas break.

"I just wanted to message you all before you finish for the year to let you know how grateful I am for everything you have done for me in 2021.

I have honestly felt so protected and supported by each of you and I could not have survived the year I have been through if I had to go through this divorce alone - you are an incredible team and I feel so lucky to have you on my side.

You have all made a massive difference in my life and I am very, very thankful."
